We were all out joy-riding so Watford had to worry along without "one" distinguished visitor this year. Yours as ever, Uncle Carl.

Horace Adams, who has always been regarded as a careful driver, failed to loop-the-loop, the other day, with J. Harriman as a passenger. He demonstrated the fact that his car can run along upside down, but lacked the necessary momentum to complete the loop.

Chas. Gray's subdivision, while lacking the magnitude of the Andy Gump estate, has all the earmarks of a handsome "Andy," methinks, could do worse than to engage promoter Gray, to dispose of some of his corner lots at "Paradise Vista."

Open season is on for birds. Ducks and partridges are not very plentiful. Only bird that is conspicuous is a lone stork which has been nannaveering across the river. However, so long as he stays on the "west side," we won't bother to get the old shot-gun out.

"Gib" Hardee is remodeling the Cram edifice. "Gib" likes to be things shipshape, and doesn't believe in a house having a Queen Anne Front, and a Marston rear.

Gramp Drowns

Gramp is enjoying his annual vacation. 'Gramp says, if a man keeps his mind must get away from a fitter once in a while. Gramp has a few traps set and will spring off every now, to seek a few hides, and hopes to find time for a few hide and seeks with his offsprings.

Boner Haffling is boxing bantam corner for Boner Haffling. Boner Haffling is the champion "bantam boxer" of these parts.

Fred Ford is marking cuses for Hon. W. R. Mansfield. If he marks all the cuses, hope he don't forget "Lew Danforth."

Says Hopeful Harry, "Just you wait. When I arrive at man's estate I'll call him 'you,' every son."

"I'll have enough to see me through. 'Course now I gotta 'wow my oys,' 'Tain't time just yet to gear up notes. I'll have some fun, but do not fear, I might begin to lose next year. I'll save so much I'll soon be rich. It's too soon now for me to 'hitch,' But just you wait the time I'll win. I'll save some money bye and bye."

Says Thoughtful Thad, "By heck, today I'll lay that dollar right away. As soon as I get my car, I'll buy it. My bank-broke's growing, ain't it great? But not be what they call a 'crumb,' 'Tain't time just yet to gear up notes. Course I ain't no Henry Ford, But I can't quite 'little thing, do it time by a rainy day. That little 'wad' makes me feel gay."

Says Hopeful Harry, dear me zuz, it's goin' to, but he never does. And just as good a chance he's had as his next neighbor. Thoughtful Thad, Now Harry's old, but he's rich. The poorhouse soon will stand in view, 'Tain't he changes that same 'rang'— "I'd like to save some, but I can't." While Thoughtful Thad is, all serene. Don't make much savings, but he far from mean.

His work and has time for play, And he salts a little away each day.

When You Buy—Do You Buy Service?

One of the greatest questions of the radio industry today is that of Service.

At the beginning of this year's radio season we picked a set to sell, that in our mind and in the mind of the public is second to none. Manufactured by a great company whose merits were known before the advance of the radio and it is a name that all know—ATWATER KENT.

If you wish to learn more of this wonderful radio a postal card or phone call will bring you the desired information.

We are in a position to Service any type of radio and our work is equalled only by the company who manufactured our set.

A HUSTLING AND GROWING COMMUNITY IN THE OXFORD COUNTY HILLS

Oxford County has a number of progressive communities but few if any where the wires are any more alive than at West Paris. A visitor from one of the Central States recently crossed the river at the great progress the village had made since his last visit there, about twenty years ago.

Surely the changes have been very great during this period and in almost every way they have been for the better. Streets, homes and public buildings are now lighted by electricity with plenty of power for industry and the snow sheds and ski factory and a Felslager mill have been built which now gives the village five busy manufacturing establishments. A fine modern business block has taken the place of the old corner drug store building. A splendid high school building and public library, a new Universal sabbath school, play-grounds, Grange hall, foot bridge over the river and the Androscoggin River and many splendid residences, these are but part of the wonderful changes that have taken place in this bustling village.

West Paris has grown steadily, not because it has great advantages over other communities but because of the splendid pull-together spirit of its citizens. When it is a matter of getting down the lights for the village, backing up the Base ball team or holding a street fair, West Paris citizens are right behind the man with the shovel.

The exhibit of the products of the West Paris manufacturing plants at the street fair this fall was a splendid idea and one which could well be copied by other communities. It has given the community real knowledge and faith in their home community. It has given their young people courage because more and more specialties are being made for them at West Paris.

West Paris business men are busy citizens but they always find the time for community work. Several years ago they organized a Club. Since that time this organization has been the means of many improvements being made.

The progress made by this little village in the Oxford Hills means what Maine would become if every little town and village had the same pull-together spirit. Every town in Oxford County and in Maine has its possibilities for development and progress. It is the duty of the community, by joining forces and improving their opportunities can make that town a little better, a little busier and a little larger.

It is the duty of every citizen to do what they can to improve and build up their own home community and West Paris, Maine, is an outstanding example of this in being done. —Ralph M. Bacon

Tuesday Evening Hills Club Met.—District Sunday School Convention.—Chas. N. Van Brinks Left.

Mrs. Horman Shillings is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edith Pratt and family, in Clinton.

The Tuesday evening hill club will meet with Mrs. F. L. Edwards, Nov. 2.

Clarence Hall and Fred B. Merrill are on a week long hunting trip in the Rangeley region.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Philbrook are in Roxbury for the winter.

Herman Massey is having a large trucking business to Gorham and Berlin, N. H., including produce and fruit.

Mrs. Pauline Philbrook was hostess of the Hills club.

Mrs. Lilla Stearns and Mrs. Hugh, of Albany, were recent callers on friends. Hugh is going to Orono for a stay of some time, he has been helping his uncle, Elmer Stearns, at his apple orchard.

William Chipman of Berlin, N. H., was in town, Sunday.

Many Bethel people are much interested in the two advertisements published in the Norway Advertiser on the "why" of the high prices of foodstuff in villages and near villages compared with city life.

Charles Pratt and his daughter, Mrs. Merton Farwell, and Marjorie Farwell have been visiting relatives in Boston, Mass. Mr. Pratt is remaining for a longer stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paine visited relatives in Albany and Watford recently.

The houses being built by Harry Anderson and Arthur Hill are rapidly coming close to completion to avoid the cold weather. Someone said they read somewhere that a mild winter was predicted. Such a forecast would be a pile long larger and now before this goes in the mail a rain has come and all around where wells are low every available tub is catching water.

Several of the Hill house plants to catch that rain water was the best to sprout slips that are started in water. Wonder if that isn't news to a few at Arthur.

John Herrick was on a business trip to Norway, Friday.

The Universalist Society entertained the district Sunday school Convention in Bethel. There was a good attendance and much interest. Many were glad to again meet the Rev. G. W. Sias now of Turner.

The relatives and friends of the late Benjamin were anxious to know of his tragic death and express the deepest sympathy for his family in their loss.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Clappan entertained friends on Sunday.

A willow tree was blown onto the telephone wires near North Bethel, breaking nearly all of them, Monday forenoon.

Mrs. N. S. Smith of North Bethel, had the misfortune to break one of his legs, Sunday night. He slipped while going out of the barn door. He is about seventy years of age.

Supreme Judicial Court

intersection of the Hemlock Hill road with the road leading from Waterford to Norway. A Ford driven by Chas. A. Guirion, a chief at Camp Wigwam, collided on the evening of Sept. 4, with the Stutz, alleged to have been driven by the respondent. Guirion's car was overturned and the driver injured. The Stutz turned from the main highway and drove up the Hemlock Hill road over which the Ford had just passed. Mr. Guirion had a fairly good view of the disappearing car that carried two people.

The accident occurred about 8 o'clock and Sheriff Braland Torrey with his deputies, arrived about 9 o'clock. Five cans of alcohol and several pieces of wrapping paper were found near the wrecked Ford. Sheriff Torrey, with aid of a flashlight followed the wheel marks of an automobile some distance up the Hemlock Hill road and during this investigation discovered more wrapping paper and cans of alcohol strewn along the roadside. A thorough search brought to light sixty-four cans, making sixty-nine for the entire haul. Many of the cans were wrapped in paper similar to that found near the scene of the wreck. Sheriff Torrey also discovered Hamel, who ran a short distance before his capture.

An automobile, alleged to be the fugitive car, was found in a field about 3 o'clock the next afternoon. The machine was a little over a mile from the Waterford road. In it was found pieces of wrapping paper and a driver's license issued to one Rosario Hamel of Lewiston. The car answered the general description of the one observed leaving the scene of the accident. Pieces of a headlight were found near the Ford matched the broken parts removed from the Stutz and tire marks observed in the road corresponded to those on the tires.

No witnesses were put on the stand for the defense. Mayor Louis J. Braun of Lewiston, one of the attorneys for the respondent, argued that the truck was not conclusive as there must have been some other traffic on the road and that the respondent's name was common in his city, so that the license might apply to others bearing the same name. He called attention to a lack of direct evidence identifying the driver of the Stutz or that the cans were over a cargo in the automobile.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty. The respondent was represented by Mr. Braun, John D. Clifford of Portland and Wilfred G. Conary of Norway.

Dominick Mozarko of Peru was found guilty of attempting to bribe an officer. According to the testimony of the state's witnesses, Deputy Sheriff Ivan Stove and two other deputies visited the farm house of the respondent one Saturday evening last June for evidence of liquor being concealed on the premises. Some alcohol and beer was found in the kitchen and shed and before the deputies left the place, the respondent was charged, offered Deputy Stove fifty dollars in bills to keep the evidence out of court. According to the officers, the conversation between the officers and respondent was in good English and readily understood.

In court, Tuesday, Mozarko seemed deaf to any-idealet but his native tongue. In rebuttal, the state's attorneys, Deputy Sheriff Ivan Stove and two other deputies visited the farm house of the respondent one Saturday evening last June for evidence of liquor being concealed on the premises. Some alcohol and beer was found in the kitchen and shed and before the deputies left the place, the respondent was charged, offered Deputy Stove fifty dollars in bills to keep the evidence out of court. According to the officers, the conversation between the officers and respondent was in good English and readily understood.

The defense claimed ignorance of procedure; the respondent believing that by paying the officer money, was equivalent to giving bonds for his appearance at court, thus saved him from spending a night in custody.

The action of State vs. Lenwood Bennett of Wentworth Location occupied most of Wednesday forenoon. The state alleged that the respondent did conspire and agree to transport liquor into the state.

This was the second chapter in a chain of events following an automobile collision on the Waterford-Norway highway at the intersection of the Hemlock Hill road on Sept. 4. Bennett was in custody by Sheriff Braland O. Torrey on that night when Rosario Hamel of Lewiston was arrested and sixty-nine cans containing alcohol secured.

The respondent was an occupant of the Hamel car and as charged by the state, assisted in securing the booze removed from Hamel's machine.

When arrested, he told Sheriff Torrey that he "bummed" a ride and was only a passenger, that he did not know Hamel and had no knowledge of the liquor cargo.

Manilla wrapping paper, pieces of a fractured headlight lens, and sixty-nine cans of alcohol that figured in the case for the state in the Hamel case, were introduced and identified. Connecting Bennett with the Stutz automobile, found in the field, was important evidence.

Albert Bellevue and his associate, Wilfred G. Conary, appointed by Chief Justice Wilson, as attorneys for the respondent, placed in witnesses on the stand. Attorney Bellevue, in his plea, emphasized that the state had not produced any direct testimony to show conspiracy or agreement with any person, as charged in the indictment. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

The Henderson manslaughter case opened Wednesday. In this, the state charged that Ralph Henderson of Oxford, on Sept. 4, killed Alfred Baxter, late of Paris. They were members of a party on their way to a baseball game in Paris. Attempting to pass a car ahead going the same way, the Dodge, which Henderson was driving, smashed into the State highway fence near the village. Alfred Baxter was hurled some feet distant to the middle of the concrete road, sustaining injuries which caused his death within a few minutes.

Henderson was placed under arrest by Sheriff Torrey and taken to the Court House, where bonds were given for his appearance at this term of court.

The panel to hear the case was selected with great care. Each jurymen was questioned as to his knowledge of the accident, either in reading or conversation. Several were rejected outright by the attorneys, one jurymen had formed an opinion and begged to be excused.

After some delay in completing the panel, the case was opened by the state, Wednesday afternoon, with Howard G. Potter, civil engineer, on the stand as the first witness. Under the direction of County Attorney Hugh Hastings, a survey had been made on Sept. 7, along the road, from information furnished by the Federal Highway Police, George Wood of Oxford, who witnessed the accident. After some explanation of the layout prints the jury in charge of two deputies viewed the section of highway which had been surveyed. Returning to the court room, Mr. Potter's examination was continued, this time directly on locating curves, grades and objects in reference to the wreck.

Officer Wood testified that he was traveling toward Oxford on his motorcycle and observed two automobiles approaching him. The leader, bearing a Massachusetts plate was on the right hand side of the road; the car behind attempted to cut around on the left. In so doing, the auto struck the right hand guard of the Massachusetts car, plunged into the fence, bounced off and again struck the fence, where it remained. The witness told of events following the accident, and identified Ralph Henderson as the driver of the wrecked car.

Sheriff Braland Torrey testified to arresting the respondent. He said, there was an odor of liquor on his breath. That he was unsteady on his feet, but would not state this was the result of intoxication. He also testified that Henderson, at the jail, admitted having two glasses of beer before leaving Oxford and that he lost control of the car for he was traveling too fast. Cross examined by Alfred O. Wheeler, he admitted that Officer Wood was the only person other than himself, so far as he knew, who examined the respondent's breath at that time.

Merle Thompson, aged 11, of Oxford, testified he was walking along the road toward Norway and both automobiles stopped him. They were not far apart and the rear car seemed to be traveling fast. He saw the car when it attempted to cut out, and witnessed the accident. With a large number of witnesses, it is probable the trial will continue through Thursday.

Curtis Bassett, of Oxford, who acted strangely during sessions of the court last week, was detained in the county jail, Friday. His mental condition grew worse and he refused to eat. Saturday night he became violently insane and was sent to the State Hospital at Augusta by the selectmen of Oxford.

No Need to Cough Night After Night

Balsam Has No Equal for Conquering Hang-On Coughs

After all there is no present day cough syrup that can take the place of this old time proven prescription made from the rarest herbs and made in the old fashioned way. This old fashioned herb balsam is for the stubborn hang-on cough that keeps you awake nights, and it is this kind of a cough that quickly conquers. Here's what genuine druggists say about Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam.

"The superiority and excellence of this balsam used for 60 years in curing explained as follows: If I were to put up a cough remedy as good as Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam, with the same well known ingredients, it would take me 5 hours and I'd have to charge an exorbitant price. The public is fortunate that they can obtain it for only 35 cents. No herb balsam can be obtained and time more highly recommended for children. Contains no opiates."

It covers the sore infected part like a healing poultice and quickly soothes and conquers the most stubborn cough. First dose instantly relieves. Get rid of your cough. Get a bottle of Adamson's Cough Balsam from your druggist.

VOTE MONDAY NOVEMBER 1st

for

ARTHUR R. GOULD

of Presque Isle

Hon. Arthur R. Gould was asked to be a candidate for the office of United States Senator to succeed the late Bert M. Fernald.

It was in response to these urgings from all sections of the State that he consented to become a candidate.

He is a business man—an outstanding business man—whose counsel is sought daily in matters of business, for he has gained his knowledge by experience.

Five members of our Congressional delegation in Washington are lawyers.

Don't you think it would be wise for Maine to have a business man in Congress?

In all fairness, do you believe that Portland is entitled to two United States Senators?

It has been 15 years since the Eastern section of Maine has had a United States Senator.

Maine could take pride in having Arthur R. Gould for United States Senator—a man with a career typical of what it is possible to accomplish by hard work, ability and courage.

He is a firm believer in Maine as a State and in its industrial development; he is opposed to the United States entering the World Court; he is an advocate of a fine highway system for Maine; if elected declares that he will follow the traditional policy of the State of Maine in upholding National prohibition; he believes in the safe policy of preparedness against possible foes, and is an advocate of the economy policies of President Coolidge in the great effort to lessen the burdens of taxation.

Lesson for October 31

THE EVILS OF STRONG DRINK

LESSON TEXT—Prov. 23:29-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—At least it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Learning to be temperate.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Control of the Appetite.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Alcoholic Beverages Hurtful to the Individual and Society.
ADVANCED PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Light Wine and Beer a Menace.

1. Woes of Those Who Indulge in Wine (vv. 29, 30).

No more graphic description of the evils of the winebibber has ever been given. It portrays in the most impressive manner the miseries that attend the drunkard's life.

2. The awful pain which causes him to cry out, "Oh!"

Many indeed are the pains which can suffer because of strong drink. But his innumerable can be traced to his evil influence.

3. The bitter remorse which causes him to cry out, "Alas!"

Many are the expressions of bitter regret which come daily from the lips of the drunkard. Sometimes it is the screw of disgrace, loss of manhood and self-respect. Sometimes it is the screw of poverty of the individual and his family clothed in rags and half-starved. Sometimes it is the screw of following a broken-hearted wife to her grave and seeing his children scattered among strangers.

4. Contention, strife and quarrel.

Much of the fighting among men is directly caused by their passions being inflamed by strong drink. The drunkard is always ready for a fight. He takes offense as well as gives offense. He not only has these from without, but he has struggles within. His conscience and his appetite are warring with each other.

5. Dabbings and complainings.

The winebibber complains of everything. His luck, broken fortune, ruined health, loss of friends, of fate and of God.

6. Wounds without a cause.

These are wounds which might have been avoided from fights in which a sober man would not have engaged and from accidents which are purely the result of intoxication.

7. Redness of eyes.

This has reference to the blood-shot eyes of the tippler, which ruins and dims his vision.

8. All these woes come upon those who tarry long at wine (v. 30).

9. The Attitude Enjoined (v. 31).

Look not at it. Do not put yourself in the way of temptation. The only safe attitude toward strong drink is total abstinence, and the only sure way of total abstinence is not to even look at it.

10. The Drunkard's Bitter End (vv. 32, 33).

Acute miseries (v. 32). "It biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."

Strong drink, like the poison of the serpent, penetrates the whole system and ends in the most fatal consequences, the bitterest sufferings and death.

11. The perversion of the moral senses (v. 33).

(1) This perversion causes the eyes to behold strange things. This denotes the fantastic images which are projected on the brain of the drunkard. Even when delirium tremens does not result, there are awful fancies which are beyond the possibility of realization. Since carnal lust always comes with wine drinking, it is no doubt true, as the Authorized Version has it, "Thine eyes shall behold strange women."

(2) "Thine heart shall utter perverse things." His moral sense being perverted, his utterances partake of the same. He tells lies. His words cannot be believed.

2. He is insensible to danger (v. 34).

The drunkard is unsteady. His brain reels to and fro, he is foolishly, even as one who would lie in the top of a ship's mast where there is the greatest danger of falling off.

3. He is insensible to pain (v. 35).

The drunkard is utterly ignorant of what happens to him while under the influence of strong drink. The drunkard has many bruises and wounds for which he cannot account. He did not realize when he received them.

5. His abject bondage (v. 35).

After all his sufferings, sorrow and disappointment he goes on as a bond slave to follow the ways of sin.

6. Hell at last, for no drunkard shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven (1 Cor. 6:10).

The Rock of Ages

A sailor in a shipwreck was once thrown upon a small rock, and clung to it in great danger, until the tide went down. "Say, Joe," asked his friends after the rescue, "did you strike with fear?" "Yes," replied Joe, "but the rock didn't." Christ is the Rock of Ages—Sabbath Reading.

The Jackson Letter

An Interesting Insight into Life in the Sunny South

No. 628-5th St., St. Petersburg, Fla. Oct. 16. Dear Friends: There was a mistake in the letter that the Advertiser did not receive about the storm here, however you all have read it in the Lewiston Sun ere this. And since Florida is now fully coming back after it all, and not getting ready, even in the most devastated parts, for a greater influx than ever this winter, I will not touch on the subject, except to say that business was carried on the very next day on the sidewalks in Miami, for grocers vended their wares even though their stores were demolished. Just to show you what can be done in a short space of time, here are a few facts about building in a hurry.

John A. Hunter, a clever builder, started a house for Lawton Swan out near Lakeview Ave. and 26th St., and in just forty-nine days the owner moved in. The house was six rooms and two porches and a double garage with grading all done and grass planted and side walks laid and all completed when he moved in. And you know here you do not just sow the grass, you have to set it out in rows as you do strawberry plants, and it puts out runners and spreads into a good looking lawn in a short time if you keep it well watered. Oh they speed up here even if it is a warm climate!

Speaking of the heat if you want to find out wonderfully cool places, you should take in the new $10,000, 900, theatre, The Florida. We went a week ago today to see the picture "Lullaby" from Gene Stratton Tilton. It was a very pretty play and the tickets were only $4.00 all over the house at Matinee. The building is an attractive one from the outside as the interior of the theatre is tropical affect. One feature is the lighting, for even when the picture is showing you are not in darkness; beautifully enclosed colored lights are in domes all about the ceilings. There is balcony and boxes beside the orchestra floor. The silver screen is hidden by mystic gauze curtains, and a 15 piece orchestra gives an overture to delight all. The picture, Klugegrams, and Comedy, there are the popular songs played on the fine pipe organ, and the audience is invited to join in on the chorus. The orchestra also renders some very fine selections. The show is continuous from 1.30 to 10.00. There are well appointed ladies' parlors and smoking rooms, with delicious meals beautifully wrought in tropical effect. And it is the coolest spot in St. Petersburg on the very hottest day, they say, and we found it delightful for two hours we know. On Friday and Saturday, "Lullaby" was one of the appropriate solos sung. There is a beautiful baby grand piano for accompanying soloists.

In contrast to this theatre there is the new Capitol an opening show place. The roof of this is the stately dome of heaven, and here the breezes from Tampa Bay refresh one every evening except Sundays of course. We saw "The Vanishing American," and enjoyed the pine organ, too. We also saw many vanishing Americans and other nationalities too I expect, for an unexpected shower came up and drove many home. We were not to be driven off so easily and were rewarded for it proved to be only a little shower and soon over with.

You see here Sunday shows are prohibited, by vote of the people too, and this is the reason they all go to church. Two Adventist churches, seven Baptist, one Catholic, two Christian, one Christian Science, one Congregational, two Episcopal, one Lutheran, six Methodist, three Presbyterian, one Salvation Army, one Spiritualist, one Unitarian and one Universalist church comprise the number of one may choose from. All are well supported and nearly all have show buildings. We have been to the Congregational because the Universalist has not been holding services all summer vacation. We went to the Congregational all here before and thought it a large roomy church, but they have remodelled and added to it. It is almost unrecognizable. The pulpit is like old style architecture with columns and archways, with an over balcony and a fine organ. The music was excellent, two anthems and three lady soloists and a baritone and bass solo. Earl Renwick sang the bass solo, he is a Botes man and son-in-law of Fred Clark of Botes's Mills. He is also City Commissioner of St. Petersburg. He and his wife with their three fine children took us up to their house to call Sunday afternoon, and then took us driving around the water front and over the new development of Pinellas Point. At the water front we saw two airplanes that were to fly next day to Norfolk, Va. Young Earl who is five and Paul who is three were very much interested in them, and vied with each other in questions.

Eva Marion has joined the Girl Reserves at the Y. W. C. A. and is enjoying the Dramatic Club and the two periods a week of Physical Culture in connection with the Junior High. In English they are giving an exhibition on "Treasure Island" and she is making reproductions of the Hero Jim Hawkins and poor Ben Gunn, as her share. Yesterday she cheered with the other girls at the football game for St. Pete Juniors when they played the Tampa's at Water-front Park. She was upper house at supper time. Our usual dessert of ice cream from the Swannam at corner of 4th and 7th Ave. soon revived her. We got two "Buckeye" pies at each night. A "buckeye" is a pasteboard box that leaped up as they heap it there holds about a pint. It comes in all flavors so we do not tire of any one. Fruit-Fruit is our favorite. And it is only 10c a "buckeye." Factory right here on Ninth St. and stores all over the city. Florida Milk Co. is the name of the factory. "Swannam" is the trade mark. Pure Food products, and it is delicious cream.

I've been watching a red headed woodpecker here on a live oak contentedly having his lunch, while a blue jay is screaming at a flock of purple grackles in the eucalyptus trees here in the park opposite his house. Mr. mocking bird is talking our windows. I think for I have not heard him for more than an hour now.

We had an accident here at our corner yesterday. A lady driving a big limousine up 7th Ave. was forty miles, she swerved a fellow in a little Ford runabout who was headed south. When he stopped he was minus a wheel on the right rear, and was headed due north and up on the side walk in front of the next house to ours. Two shrubs one, tree indeed, were ripped up, the telephone pole split some, but the man was just a bit pale, and got out and went to interview the lady who had brought her car to a stop a few houses beyond. That's a close call. So you see the other fellow you have to watch out for here and there are too many of them scooting along here for me to want to drive so I, as I have jacked ours up in the drive so I must be off. You see I did have my patchwork squares done for the Grange Fair and so I must make out peace by sending some things to help out in the Grange. Perhaps some Florida notions will do it. Kind regards to all, Eva Bradlee Jackson.

COMFORT WITH ECONOMY
Ideal Vecto Heater

For Smaller Homes and Other Buildings

Price $99.00

Circulates Healthful Warmth Throughout the Home for the Usual Cost of Heating One Room

The Ideal Vecto Heater is a clean, compact, self-contained heating unit—a perfected, scientific application of nature's way of spreading warmth.

Instead of radiating an intense heat for a short distance in one room only, the Vecto Heater distributes an even, comfortable warmth throughout every room. This it accomplishes by its very extensive and scientifically designed heating surface.

Large volumes of air are continuously warmed at moderate temperatures. In accordance with the natural law of gravitation, the warmed air rises and circulates steadily throughout the home, bringing clean and healthful warmth to every nook and corner. The Ideal Vecto Heater thus actually warms and circulates the entire body of air in a home, six to ten times each hour. Yet because of its special, exclusive features of design, it consumes no more coal than is ordinarily used by old-fashioned heaters to warm one room!

Heating Capacity

The Ideal Vecto Heater is designed primarily for smaller homes and other buildings. If your home does not exceed 8,000 cubic feet, you will find in the Vecto Heater an ideal answer to your heating needs. If it is smaller, remember that the Vecto Heater can be regulated to heat the lesser space. The turn of a handle is all that is required.

How to Measure the Capacity of Your Home

Start with any room. Measure the number of feet in its length, width and height and multiply these figures. The result is the cubic foot capacity of the room. For instance, a room 12 feet long, 10 feet wide and 10 feet high is 1200 cubic feet. Do this for each room and add the results.

Harvest Supper and Entertainment a Fine Success—Union Temperance Meeting, Sunday—Town Items.

The sale, harvest supper and entertainment was very successful, Tuesday afternoon and evening, and all had a good time. The concert in the evening, by the "New Ladies' Quartette" was fine, and enjoyed by a fair and appreciative audience. Every number was best and the program varied with solos, duets, readings and instrumental numbers. Mrs. Anderson brought down the house with her readings and the children liked her little folks' pieces. Ruth Graves' sweet tenor voice was like a bird, and her horned harmonica accompanied by a piano trio was thought best by others. The four voices in their quartette numbers were of a quality and blended beautifully together. The Federated Aid are well pleased with their success of the entire day's program.

The Universalist Society will hold their annual sale and chicken pie supper and entertainment at Good Will Hall, Wednesday, Nov. 17.
